

Interested in making a difference to the way cancer services are delivered across London?

Join our Cancer Community of Practice steering group as a patient partner.

We're looking for people living with or after cancer to work alongside our members to help shape the future of cancer services in London.

What is the London Cancer Community of Practice?

Made up of nurses and allied health professionals working in primary care, community or hospital-based services, our community has been developed to share learning and good practice to improve Londoners' experience of cancer services.

Our steering group meets monthly online to plan and develop our programme of themed events. We want to build on our existing network of patient partners to ensure that the group is inclusive, diverse and represents the multi-cultural population of our city.
